

Troops to Teachers (TTT)

1. What Is Troops to Teachers?

Troops to Teachers (TTT) is a transition program that assists eligible military personnel in meeting the requirements necessary to become teachers in K-12 public, public charter, and Bureau of Indian Affairs schools serving low-income families.

- The program assists those who wish to become school counselors, teacher aides, principals, vice principals, speech therapists, school psychologists, and other school workers engaged with students in K-12 schools.
- Implemented in 1994, this national program is overseen and funded by the Department of Defense and managed by the Department of the Navy through the Defense Activity for Non-Traditional Education Support (DANTES).

2. What Is The Goal of TTT?

The TTT program seeks to improve American K-12 education by providing motivated, experienced, and dedicated personnel for the nation's classrooms, and increase the number of male and minority teachers in today's public schools. TTT's objectives are to:

- Help participants gain an understanding of teacher certification requirements, options for completing certification, and ways to enhance employment potential.
- Provide positive role models for the nation's public school students.
- Refer certified teachers in all subject areas and other educational workers to K-12 schools.

3. What Help is Provided?

After registration, TTT provides participants with two types of services:

- Counseling and referral assistance: includes guidance about certification pathways and access to a wide network of volunteer mentors who provide valuable advice and guidance at the local level. Referral assistance includes providing participants with the necessary information on job availability, preparing them for employment, and in some cases, arranging interview opportunities. These services are available to all program participants.
- Financial assistance: The maximum amount of financial assistance provided to eligible TTT participants may not exceed $10,000. Assistance comes in two forms, a $5,000 stipend* that may be used for teacher certification and licensure costs, and a bonus up to $10,000. TTT participants receiving financial assistance must agree to teach for three years in a high-need public, public charter, or Bureau of Indian Affairs school. Eligibility is determined by the TTT national office following the completion of the registration process, subject to the following eligibility categories:
