CONNECTING TO THE COLLECTIONS

DISTINCTIVE UNIT INSIGNIA, 112TH QUARTERMASTER REGIMENT

The metal insignia consists of a buff and blue shield with three fleurs-de-lis diagonally across the shield. The buff and blue colors are the branch colors of the quartermaster corps while the three fleurs-de-lis represent the campaigns in France the unit participated in during World War I. The insignia was first approved in 1930 for the 37th Division Quartermaster Train and was passed to the 112th Quartermaster Regiment in 1936 when the unit was reorganized. The insignia was canceled in 1943 when the unit was reduced to a single company. The insignia was redesignated for the 112th Transportation Battalion from 1955 to 1959.
