CONNECTING TO THE COLLECTIONS

121ST TACTICAL FIGHTER WING EMBLEM

This emblem was worn by Airmen of the 121st Tactical Fighter Wing in the 1980s on the Battle Dress Uniform (BDU). This patch is the subdued version of the full color emblem which consists of a maroon, teal and olive drab color palette. The nebuly division of the emblem is emblematic of the sky and the Air Force mission. The cubit arm, brandishing a sword, is for military protection of the sky above. The winged chaplet is for fidelity and loyalty toward successfully accomplishing the Air Force program. The unit designation in the scroll was changed to 121st Air Refueling Wing in 1993, when the unit was redesignated.
