YOUNGSTOWN, OHIO

838TH MILITARY POLICE COMPANY

The 838th Military Police Company was organized on July 10, 1899, in Warren, Ohio as Company D, Unattached Infantry. On July 14, the unit was assigned to the 5th Infantry Regiment. The company was mustered into federal service on June 19, 1916, for service along the Mexican Border and was mustered out on March 15, 1917.

The company returned to active service on July 15, 1917, for World War I and was sent to Camp Sheridan, Ala. for training. While there, the unit was redesignated as Company D, 145th Infantry and assigned to the 37th Division. The company arrived in France in June 1918 and took part in the Lorraine, Meuse-Argonne and Ypres-Lys campaigns. The company was demobilized at Camp Sherman, Ohio on April 22, 1919.

The unit was reorganized in Warren on July 23, 1921, as Headquarters Company, 1st Battalion, 145th Infantry and was redesignated in 1929 as Company F, 145th Infantry. The company was inducted into federal service on Oct. 15, 1940, and sent to Camp Shelby, Miss. for training. During World War II, Company F served with the 37th Infantry Division in the Pacific Theater and saw combat on New Georgia, Bougainville and Luzon. Company F was awarded the Presidential Unit Citation for its part in the battle of Hill 700 on Bougainville in March 1944.

Following World War II, the unit reorganized in Warren as Anti-Tank Company, 145th Infantry and was redesignated in 1948 as Heavy Mortar Company, 145th Infantry. The company was ordered into active service from January 1952 to June 1954 for the Korean War. The company trained at Camp Polk, La, with many of the Soldiers rotating to Korea as individual replacements.

The company was reorganized as Combat Support Company, 2d Battle Group, 145th Infantry on Sept. 1, 1959, and further reorganized as Company B, 3d Battalion, 145th Infantry on April 1, 1963. When the 37th Infantry Division was removed from Ohio's troop allotment on Feb. 15, 1968, the company was converted to Company C, 437th Military Police Battalion. On Feb. 1, 1972, the unit was further redesignated as the 324th Military Police Company.

On March 15, 1983, the Warren Armory was closed and the unit was moved to Youngstown. The company was ordered into active service on Jan. 3, 1991, for Operation Desert Storm and returned to Ohio on June 7, 1991. On Feb. 28, 1993, the unit was consolidated with the 838th Military Police Company and the consolidated unit was designated as the 838th Military Police Company.

The 838th had been organized on Dec. 15, 1921, in Youngstown as Headquarters Detachment and Combat Train, 2d Battalion, 135th Field Artillery. Locally, the unit was known as the Youngstown Grays. During World War II, the unit served in the Pacific as Headquarters Battery, 135th Field Artillery Battalion. The unit was reorganized as the 838th Military Police Company on Feb. 1, 1972, and saw active service in July 1980 for the Cuban Refugee Crisis. The 838th also saw active service during Operation Desert Storm from Jan. 3, 1991, to March 6, 1992.

After the consolidation, the 838th Military Police Company returned to active service in July 1996 for a peace keeping mobilization to Bosnia, where the company was awarded the Army Superior Unit Award. During the War on Terrorism, the company has deployed to Afghanistan twice, in 2007-2008 and 2013-2014. During both mobilizations, the company was awarded the Meritorious Unit Commendation.

PRESIDENTIAL UNIT CITATION

Company F, 145th Infantry Regiment is cited for outstanding performance of duty in action against the enemy at Bougainville, Solomon Islands, from 9 to 12 March 1944. During the dark, rainy, early morning hours of 9 March 1944, the Japanese launched an attack which successfully penetrated American positions atop Hill 700. This terrain feature commanded the American beachhead, making it imperative that enemy exploitation of the initial success be prevented. Company F, which had been in battalion reserve, was ordered to contain the enemy, and be prepared to launch a counterattack. The company formed a cordon below the enemy occupied hillcrest, stopped further advances, and protected a vital supply installation. On the morning of 10 March the company launched its counterattack, with the 1st platoon on the left, and the 2d platoon on the right. As it moved up the 60° slope, across terrain offering little cover or concealment, the 1st platoon met withering fire. However, this platoon's action successfully delayed further Japanese advances, and that night its men dug in only 20 yards from enemy positions. The 2d platoon's progress was also slow and tedious, but after three daring attempts it regained critical installations before nightfall. That night the platoon held its position without food, water, or communications against severe counterattacks. The next morning these men captured two more vital installations. The company's line now formed a valuable base of fire for the battalion counterattack which culminated in the annihilation of Japanese resistance in the area. Company F's casualty rate, 66 percent of the men participating in the action, indicates the ferocity of the combat. The company's accomplishment was a splendid example of combat efficiency and fighting spirit. This unit was instrumental in preventing a Japanese break-through on Hill 700. (War Department General Orders No. 82, 18 October 1944)
